RUSSO-JAPANESE INTERESTS CLASH OVER OIL FIELDS

By H. O. THOMPSON

Reuter's Telegrams Bureau

TOKYO, Dec. 10.—Russo-Japanese relations, already strained by the breakdown of the Siberian railway negotiations in Moscow, were further aggravated today when Japanese officials attempted to exploit 47 Japanese oil workers from the Kashiwa field of North Sakhalin Island.

Foreign office spokesmen said the Japanese refused to leave the fields, and a clash was feared. Foreign Minister Hiroshi Arima telegraphed the Japanese ambassador at Moscow to deliver an immediate protest to the Soviet government. The island is owned jointly by Russia and Japan. It is situated between Japan under agreements providing part of the workers are to be Russian, and most Japanese. Disputes regarding the proportion of workers of each nationality led to numerous previous clashes.

Political Stage-Play

London and Paris relaxed tension when Count Ciano assured the Earl of Perth that the Italian Government "dis-sociated itself" from the mob scene in the Chamber of Deputies, when the members broke into riotous demands that France hand over Tunisia. At least officialdom in London and Paris said the tension was relaxed; that they stated the truth is hard to believe. It was this same Count Ciano who stirred up the deputies to make the demonstration. He was the first man to mention Tunisia. That he did it deliberately, and with a view to producing the results which followed, no one in his senses can doubt.

But European statesmen live, move and have their being in an atmosphere of make-believe. The art of diplomacy has been perfected into the art of simulating deception. Pretence is the mask that heads of governments must wear. Chamberlain and Daladier know that the Government of Italy, in the person of Mussolini's son-in-law, threw the Tunisian bomb-shell with intent to disturb the relations between Italy and France — for what ulterior motive? They were "Net" when the bomb-thrower says he "dis-sociates" himself and his colleagues from the act, custom requires that they accept his assurance and profess a confidence even Ciano knows they do not feel. The peace of Europe is a peace of hypocrisy; so patently absurd that it deceives nobody.

Justice for the Home-Owner

In Edmonton, tenants who are on relief do not have to worry about the rent. The city, with assistance from the Governments, pays their rent as part of the assistance given to them. But the home-owner who had to go relief has had to keep worrying about his taxes. These were not paid for him, and went on piling up.

This discrimination was not fair. The tenant might come out of a period on relief no worse off than he began. But the home-owner came out with an accumulation of tax arrears, with penalties added, which handicapped him for years. The home rented to a family on relief was kept free from encumbrance, because the owner had to pay the taxes out of the relief rental paid to him. The home occupied by the unemployed owner tended to become a liability rather than an asset, because the taxes were charged up against him, with penalties added. The city was also penalized. In the one case the rented property was kept on the tax-roll, by help of the Governments, while in the other the property went under caveat and was in limbo for being confiscated and struck off the tax-roll.

This difference in treatment is to be finally ended. Hereafter the home-owner on relief will have his taxes paid, as the tenant has his rent paid. There is even a possibility that the new deal will be retroactive, and the home-owner's arrears also put in line for liquidation by monthly instalments of relief money. That should be done, alike as a matter of fairness to the parties concerned and in the interests of the city itself, which already has more confiscated property than it can get back on the tax-list.

Another of the anomalies of the relief system thus goes by the board, or is in the act of going.

The Busy Burglars

No resident of Edmonton who reads the newspapers or talks to his neighbors can have been unaware that something like a crime wave has swept into this country recently. House-breakings have been epidemic, parked cars have been looted daily or nightly, safes have been blown open or carried away, purses have been snatched from women on the streets, a number of hold-ups have been reported and assaults with robbery as the motive.

Mayor Fry may or may not be right in suggesting this is a result from the closing of the "soup kitchen" where single men were formerly fed. Where the victims or others have caught glimpses of the participants in these crimes they agree that the culprits were young men or boys in the late teens. From which the hasty inference is that criminal tendencies have taken hold of the youth of the city or of young outsiders who have come into the city for the winter. But the inference is not conclusive. A half-dozen active crooks can do a good deal of breaking and looting and "Jesse James stuff" in so far as furling a city as Edmonton, where policemen cannot be kept on every street, and where people are lulled into carelessness by the fact that personal property is usually safe from molestation.

The police, it is said, have been holding out on the reporters and keeping the soft-pedal on publicity, thinking this might help them to catch the guilty parties. But the time for secrecy has gone by. Prevention is better than "cure," and the residents of the city are entitled to know officially — as they must have gathered already from conversation and the reports which have been published — that they should take precautions which ordinarily are not required against being robbed, and perhaps assaulted also.

It is sheer folly at present to go about the streets at night with a "roll" in one's pocket, to leave money in the house when going out, to leave cars unlocked, and to carry on in the care-free way Edmontonians are used to in respect to the protection of property and person. Thievery only flourishes when and where the business is found to be profitable.

Editorial Notes

Foreign Minister Arita, explained to the United States and British ambassadors that Japan will close the open door to China as gently as possible. But, of course, close it.

Just before signing the new pact with Germany, the French Government earmarked $200,000,000 more for the army and navy. That seems to measure French opinion as to what the pact is worth as a preserver of peace.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner says Dominion expenditures for farm relief in the west may not exceed $9,000,000 this year, whereas last year the cost was $26,000,000. The key words are "may not". Predicting the cost of relief is not an exact science.

Terrible as it was, one fact should not be overlooked in regard to the disaster at Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia. There were 250 men in the cars which dashed madly down the 1,400 foot shaft when the cable broke. Of these only 17 were killed and 30 badly injured. The remarkable thing is that so many escaped.

The Swiss are said to wish the League of Nations would vacate the marble palace at Geneva and move its headquarters to some other country — any other country. Not that they are insensible to the financial benefits which flow from its presence, but that they are also aware of the danger of harboring it in the displeasure of the neighboring dictators. Seeing that the idea of peace on earth is now an outcast among men, perhaps it would be appropriate also if the peace organization were deprived of its home.

The Open Door Closes

Japan in rejecting the demands of Great Britain, United States and France for the opening of the Yangtze River to commercial navigation, once more emphasizes the fact that the open door in China has been closed.

Early this month, Britain and the United States in another attempt to maintain the open door were sharply told by Japan that she considered the Nine-Power Treaty obsolete. In fact, it has been obsolete since Sir John Simon, as British Foreign Secretary, more than six years ago refused to co-operate with the United States in regard to Manchukuo—Victoria Times.

Birthday Boy

If King George VI is like most people just turned 40, he ought to be pretty tired of his birthday before the year of grace 1939 is done with. His birthday falls on December 14, according to vital statistics, but as a ceremony of state, involving a procession of the guards in their red uniforms and fur hats, the King's birthday is June 8. Next year, however, the King and Queen are to visit Canada and the United States, and the Canadians, desiring to honor His Majesty on his birthday, have asked that it be observed on May 30, a few days after his arrival in Canada. If he is back in London by June 8, he will probably have to celebrate his birthday all over again, in spite of the fact that the husbands of the Canadians will still be ringing in his birthday.

This sounds to most people like one of those maneuvers and customs peculiar to the English which give them their reputation for cantankerousness and persistence in error. At the time of the year, however, the custom seems to make sense. Millions of Britons are celebrating birthdays between now and Christmas, a fact which means that not much attention is paid to the festivities. With Christmas coming, it seems likely that people would at a last about a birthday. The royal prerogative would make it possible to shift inconveniently placed birthdays to a better time.

But, to a time of year when the boys and girls at the party wouldn't have to come in the house until time for the ice cream and paper cups. However, being a birthday, we shall probably pay no attention to this very sensible British arrangement—Baltimore Sun.

Business in Canada

Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., President, speaking at the annual meeting of shareholders of the Bank of Montreal:

"By and large I think it can be said, having in view the conditions which have prevailed in many countries, that business throughout the Dominion during the past year has not been unsatisfactory. Most of our industries have maintained a fair rate of production and although there has been recession in some lines this has been offset largely in other directions, with the marked activity of mining contributing in increasingly important measure to the growth of many subsidiary enterprises from coast to coast."

"Nature has been kind to Canada this year. The crops of the Dominion have not only been the largest since 1932, but are of high quality; the widely-varied field and fruit crops, for the most part, have been abundant; while those of the most value have been reasonably good. In Maritime Provinces there has been a good crop of apples and a plentiful crop of potatoes. In the west, the grain and the yield of potatoes were lowered by excessive moisture. In British Columbia the fruit crops were excellent, with the grain on the short side owing to a long spell of dry weather. Taken all in all, the crops of the Dominion may be said to have been good and in practically every region livestock has done well, the winter with an abundance of feed supplies."

"Our fisheries have been active during the year, good catches of fish have been taken on both the Atlantic and the Pacific. Fish markets, however, have been depressed. The lumber industry has had a difficult year, owing to curtailed export demand and lower prices. Production of newsprint has been markedly less than last year, but I am glad to say there has been no reduction of the standard of living. The year proved so disastrous in years gone by. During recent weeks newsprint consumption has improved, so the outlook for the coming year is more hopeful."

"Following the harvest, railway traffic, adversely affected by the small crops of last year, showed marked, though not sustained, improvement; while shipping on the whole has had a better season, with more cargoes on the Great Lakes and a greater tonnage unloaded and leaving our ports. Tourist traffic, while lower in the central provinces than last year, has shown some increase in other parts of the Dominion, and the whole has maintained a substantial level."

"The recurrent crises in Europe, the situation in the Orient, and the depression in the United States have all combined to place a check on our export trade, which for the twelve months ended October 31 totalled $778,562,000, as compared with $1,160,000,000 for the corresponding period of the year 1937. These figures reflect a fall in price more than in volume. Our balance of trade still remains favorable to the extent of $74,675,000. Our exports were closing the year on a more hopeful note, in view of the importance of the trade upturn in the United States and the passing of the war scare in Europe."

OH WEEP FOR THE QUALITY

From Lord Byron's "Hebrew Melodies":
Oh weep for those that weep by Babel's stream,
Whose shrines are desolate, whose land a dream;
Weep for the harp of Judah's broken shell,
Whose where their God hath dwelt the goddess dwell!

And where shall Zion's harp be blending sweet
And when shall Zion's songs again sound sweet
And Judah's melody once more rejoice
The harp that leaped before his heavenly voice?

Tribes of the wandering foot and weary breast,
How shall ye rise away and be at rest!
The wild dove hath her nest in the fox's cave,
Marking their country—Israel but the grave!

A correspondent asks what has become of the early settlers? Does he mean the ones who would settle on the first of the month—Regina Leader-Post.

The Passing Show

By J. B. COWPER

Scotland Yard altho' seem to take their wit with them when they go holidaying—just like newspapermen. Detective-Sergeant Bullard of the "Yard" was on holiday a few days ago. Strolling from his home he wanted a "lift" from some passing truck-driver. On Milsand road, Fulham, he held up his DETECTIVE WORKS hand. A truck-driver stopped. The driver was wearing a tweed jacket and a toothbrush moustache. When Stutland asked him his name, he replied in a foreign accent "William Smith." The detective's curiosity was aroused.

"What have you got in your truck?" he asked. "William Smith" didn't answer. He took his foot from the brake, threw in the clutch and stepped on the gas. This didn't help him any, for the detective nimbly swung himself aboard and forced the driver to a stop.

On examination, the cargo proved to be three hundred pounds of gelignite (a high explosive composed of dynamite and nitrate of potassium) and thirty detonators. The forefinger with the toothbrush moustache asked to answer all questions about the high explosive. He maintained his silence when brought before the magistrate. He is being detained under the Explosive Substances Act, which Scotland Yard follows up the matter further.

Smart holiday work for the detective.

Three German spies have recently been convicted in United States, while a dozen others who operated in conjunction with crews of the North German Lloyd vessel Europa, managed to escape to Germany before arrest. It is an eye-opener for the American people—the result of a tip-off by members of the espionage section of Scotland Yard.

One theory is that Hitler's machine gunning up the French's profession of affection for France by digging tunnels to blow gaps in the Maginot Line.

In Denmark last week, nine Germans and three Danes were arrested on charges of espionage for a foreign party. An ex-naval captain, Horst von Pflug-Hartung, is named as the key man. He is one of two brothers who were charged with participating in the murders of Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, Socialist leaders, in Berlin in 1918. Both were acquitted. Next year the communists took revenge and killed Heinrich von Pflug-Hartung. Horst went to Sweden, from whence he was expelled in 1931 for arms-smuggling.

The other suspects include a bank director, a teacher, a lawyer and an elderly German grocer and his son who live at the northernmost tip of Denmark, from whence they shipped North Sea shipping. Their work, it is said, was not directed against Denmark. It was to supply news of shipping in Danish waters to another power in case of war. The arrests were made to enforce Danish neutrality.

Another phase of the absurdity of war in a world of plenty comes from the fact that London Daily Express in parallel column, without comment, ran two items that speak without words. The first—a prayer taken from the English Church Prayer Book—

"O God, Heavenly Father, whose gift it is that... DRAFT WANTED... and the second—death that we do now justly suffer for our iniquity may through Thy goodness be mercifully turned to our redemption and life."

Side by side was the following news despatch: "Fishermen who had followed in rain and darkness the herring trade found that the boats carrying 1,600 baskets of herrings from the sea. . . But nobody would offer a penny for them. . . So the fishermen put out again and fished for herring. . ."

The ribald might say in this a too-generous answer to prayer. The fact was that the moguls of the herring trade feared that it might make herrings too cheap for their profits. In one day 22,000,000 herrings were landed at Lowestoft and Yarmouth, and the market price fell from 10s. per hundred to 4s. per hundred. The herring landed at Lowestoft with full catches, the Herring Board ordered curing plants to stop work at 1 p.m., and refused to allow the 160 boats to clear for the sea. The curers would have been asked to take the catches, but feared their licenses might be cancelled for the rest of the season.

Another prayer should be inserted in the book, pointing out the sacred nature of private profit in the nation's food.

THE FINAL TOUCH

My friend and neighbor, Mrs. Lizzie DeArmond, lay dead in her coffin, in front of the pulpit of the church she had served for fifty of her eighty-seven years of life. Her husband, Bob, had hung, thrillingly, two of the hymns that she had written, and that are still being sung by assembled Christians, by photographers and over the air. Tribute had been paid to her worldwide ministry, and to her beautiful, unassuming, and unassuming life. The family went to the cemetery, and the congregation dispersed.

Still that was not the end. Great quantities of gorgeous floral tributes had surrounded the casket. Two days later, on Sunday, these reappeared in the church and in every room of the Sunday school, as well as in the homes of the DeArmonds. Mrs. DeArmond's like-minded daughter had extended her mother's spirit of ministry to this final touch.

Like the dying Christ's last thought for His mother, this act seemed to me a challenge to do the very ultimate in grateful ministry.

May there be little to us like this service of thoughtfulness for others, our Father. Help us to the uttermost. Amen.

Read John 12:36.

There has been too much of a tendency in Canada in recent years to rush to the government the assistance of King George. All Canadians should be explicitly warned that there must be an end of that kind of thing if the country is to prosper.—Brandon Expositor.

Larger School Units

Editor, Bulletin: I notice by one of Mr. Aberhart's discourses that he says the larger school units are becoming more and more popular with the people. Nothing could be further from the facts. They are almost as popular as a skin at a garden party, and if Mr. Aberhart doubts this let him give the people a vote in those districts where they are, and they will be snowed under so badly he will never find them. This system has doubled school taxes on the farmers in a large majority of the districts. One man paying three and four times as much on the same amount of land for the same privileges. Also other taxes have increased by all the way over 50 per cent. The increased army of civil servants. He said there would be no new taxes and no increase in present ones; but they would be reduced. Nobody ever lowered anything by increasing it. He also said there would be no repudiation or confiscation; all they would have chance to pay their debts.

He says there should be Christianity taught with politics. We wonder if the bond deal with Edson is the best part, but Mr. Aberhart wants his pound of flesh.

And all the while the people are entirely ignored. If this is his definition of democracy, then we are better off with the old king, Lamont, Alia. FARMER.

The Logical Conclusion

Editor, Bulletin: I recently noticed in your correspondence column a letter from Mr. Collier in which he advocated a tax on money, and a few days later I saw a reply in which the writer did not agree with Mr. Collier's idea on money. In the one case I do not think Collier spent for enough in his thinking, and in the other case the writer probably has not fully grasped the complete significance of the suggestion. With your permission, I would like to add a few words, and trust that they may prove of interest to your readers. I certainly carry the thought a little further towards its logical conclusion.

We must, first of all, however, agree on what money is, and I believe that it is generally agreed that of itself money has no value, except for the goods and services which can be bought by it. In other words, it is merely a symbol, and a means of exchange of goods and services. This being so, it should be depreciated rather than appreciated by interest charges.

Under the present financial system it is quite easily seen that interest, the system will eventually break down, when we have on one hand money being treated as a commodity and earning interest, when actually the money only represents goods.

With The Railroaders

On the National System

Old time railroad men learned with sincere regret of the death last Sunday of R. M. "Bob" Halpenny, pioneer in western Canada in 1897 at the age of 21, and had lived and worked here ever since, mostly engaged in railroading until 1920, when he resigned to accept the position of general manager of the Sterling Cattle Co. Ltd., which he held until the time of his death.

About 125 railroaders gathered at Haddon hall on 37 St. and Jasper avenue at a smoker in honor of R. T. Peterson, carmen, S.Y., who was recently retired.

Mr. Peterson was presented by his fellow lodge members last month with a set of travelling bags. The affair was made into a triple event when presentations were also made to C. Stevens, recently retired, and to Dick McLean, who is to be retired Dec. 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson left Saturday for Victoria where they will reside.

B. G. Worsfold, C.N.R. switchman, has returned from a short visit with his father in Kamloops.

Frank and Glen McLeod, sons of Engineer McLeod of Mirror, visited friends in Edmonton for a few days last week.

Canada Manufactures Warplanes

"HAMPTON BOMBER"

In November, when it was announced in the British parliament that a large order for this type of plane was to be placed with a Canadian aircraft syndicate representing most of Canada's aviation factories, both Herr Wonniger and Col. Calderara had a very good idea of the effectiveness of this modern-day bomber.

While the Hampden is the Royal Air Force's newest and speediest twin-engined bomber, companion craft to the Bristol Blenheim which is now being constructed at Longport, Quebec, it is pointed out by informed observers that delivery of the new Hampdens will not be possible from the Canadian factories until late in 1940. Thus the planes will be virtually three years old when they are placed in England's defence. On the other hand it is pointed out that this new contract will result in a number of well-equipped airplane factories with skilled workmen spread across the Dominion, well out of reach of European bombers.

CUMMINS HERE FOR STUDY OF DREDGING PLAN

Transport Men Hold Meeting To Discuss North Waterways

O. F. Cummins, head of the Cummins Construction Company, Western, will meet transportation chief and other persons interested in northern development at a meeting in the office of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines late Saturday afternoon.

The Cummins Construction Company has secured the contract for the dredging of the southern and Clearwater rivers from Lake Manitoba to Waterways as well as facilitate water transportation next summer. Mr. Cummins will return from an inspection of the scene of the proposed operations Saturday afternoon prior to the meeting.

Low water in the northern rivers, especially at the point scheduled to be dredged caused great inconvenience to the boatsmen this summer and delayed ships freightage by making it necessary to yard most of the freight in small boats.

Among those scheduled to attend the meeting are W. A. Wray, May, of Canadian Airways, W. L. Birtwell, of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines, and J. M. Macdonald, of the Western Transportation Company, 30-1-10, Mickey, of the Western River Transport, and Ross-Bennett.

No Decision On Tax Relief Plan Bureau Reports

Question of removing the burden of tax arrears from unemployed home owners shoulders is a matter which is still under review and which discussion has been given officials of the provincial Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare. It had been hoped on Thursday at the city hall that a decision on this point had been reached and that taxes would be paid in the same manner as rent is now paid for tenancy relief recipients.

Commenting on this official of the bureau said that the matter was brought up at the conference with the cities and is still under consideration.

"This is something that concerns city municipalities in a very important way and must be carefully considered, taking into account the amount of grant to aid received from the federal government and the financial position of the province."

Christmas Dinner In The Northwest Is Important Fete

Coming of the airplane has made it possible for those living in mining camps and trading posts in the northwest to enjoy full course turkey dinners at Christmas with freshly-killed turkeys, vegetables, plum-pudding and all the other trimmings.

In the isolated frontier sections, deep in the barren lands, lonely men will spend Christmas in much the same manner as they have for generations past, for the airplane has not yet been permitted to visit the frequent camps to take them into their trapping lairs in the fall and bring them out in the spring.

Christmas is, however, still the most important day of the year for these trappers in the barrens and wildernesses of the north, and they plan and prepare for it when they are making out their supply lists for the winter and early fall.

Little Orphan Annie

QUIET, SERENITY, PEACE, SECURITY—THEN THE FOUR FOREIGN-LOOKING STRANGERS CAME—THEY TALKED AND ANNIE LISTENED AND AS SHE LISTENED QUIET, SERENITY, PEACE AND SECURITY VANISHED, AND DEATH WAS STANDING AT ANNIE'S SIDE—BUT AT THE MOMENT ANNIE HAS A NICE LEAD ON THE DARK ANGEL—BUT WAIT—

THAT STUPID OLD WOMAN AND THAT OFFICIOUS TRUCK DRIVER COST US PRECIOUS MINUTES—

AND THE NOSEY POLICE DELAYED US EVEN MORE— BUT SHE CAN NOT BE FAR AHEAD—

HA! SEE HOW OUR PET'S RACE EAGERLY TO THE KILL—

BUT IT MUST NOT BE A KILL—WE MUST ARRIVE IN TIME TO PREVENT THAT—

OF COURSE—BUT WE HAVE THE DOGS IN SIGHT—FASTER—WE WILL SOON BE UP WITH THEM—

SEE? SHE RAN ALONG THIS STREAM, SEEKING A MEANS BY WHICH TO CROSS—

GOOD—IT COST HER TIME—

HA! THE DOGS STOP AT THE BANK—THERE SHE MUST HAVE WADED IN—

ACROSS! ACROSS! ON THE OTHER SIDE THE TRAIL MUST GO ON—

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! LOOK, SANDY! DOGS! TERRIBLE, GREAT, WILD HOUNDS! THEY'VE LED THOSE MEN TO WHERE WE TOOK TO TH' CREEK AFTER FOLLOWIN' TH' BANK UP-STREAM FOR A MILE—

WATCH 'EM! THEY THINK WE JUST CROSSED AND WENT ON—SEE 'EM CIRCLE, TRYIN' TO PICK UP OUR TRAIL—? GEE! THEY'VE COME BACK TO TH' CREEK—THEY'RE TALKIN'—

HA! THEY KNOW WE WADED A WAY TO THROW 'EM OFF—BUT WHICH WAY? WE WERE GOIN' UP STREAM ALONG TH' BANK—SO THEY FIGGER WE KEPT ON TH' SAME WAY—SEE? THERE THEY GO—CHECKIN' EACH BANK—

IT SURE WAS LUCKY WE DOUBLED BACK DOWN THAT CREEK—IT'S FOOLED 'EM FOR A LITTLE WHILE—BUT IT'LL BE ONLY FOR A LITTLE BIT—COME ON—RUN, SANDY—

WHUFF! I'M JITTERY—POOR LITTLE RABBIT—I SURE KNOW NOW HOW YOU MUST FEEL SOME TIMES—I'LL NEVER HUNT A RABBIT AGAIN AS LONG AS I LIVE—

OH, I'VE GOT TO STOP AND CATCH MY BREATH—THIS HILL TOP—LOOK—WHERE ARE THEY NOW? OH! OH! THERE'S ONE O' THOSE TERRIBLE GREAT HOUNDS—CIRCLIN'—

WHERE'S THE OTHER ONE? HE'S CIRCLIN' TOO, BUT WHERE? HE'LL CROSS OUR TRAIL MAYBE—AND IF HE DOES—SHH—H—WHAT WAS THAT? SANDY! WHERE ARE YOU?

OH!!

Maw Green

WHOOSH! THERE GOES ME DOOR-BELL FER TH' TENTH TOIME THIS MORNIN'—

BR-R! BR-R!

AR-R-RH! ANOTHER PEDDLER! TH' BLACK CURSE BE ON HIM AND ALL HIS PROGENY FER DRIVIN' A BODY FAIR LOONEY!

WELL?

DIDJA WISHTA SEE ME?

WELL, HA! HA! IF I DID, LADY, THEN I GOT MY WISH, THANK YOU—

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

AUSTRALIAN ANIMALS...

BECAUSE AUSTRALIA WAS ISOLATED FROM THE LARGER CONTINENTS LONG AGO, IT HAS PRESERVED A UNIQUE COLLECTION OF ANIMAL ANTIQUES.

BEST KNOWN OF ALL AUSTRALIAN FAUNA IS THE KANGAROO, SURVIVOR OF AN EARLY FORM OF LIFE. ALMOST ALL OF THE LARGER ANIMALS OF THE CONTINENT ARE MARSUPIALS... CREATURES THAT CARRY THEIR YOUNG IN POUCHES.

MOST LOVABLE OF ALL IS THE KOALA... THE ARBOREAL TEDDY BEAR.

THE SPINY ANT-EATER, ALTHOUGH A MAMMAL, LAYS EGGS.

ANOTHER EGG-LAYER, THE DUCKBILL, APPEARS TO BE PART REPTILE, PART MAMMAL AND PART BIRD.

WOMBATS, BEAR-LIKE IN LOOKS, BURROW LIKE BADGERS AND LIVE ON ROOTS AND GRASSES.

AUSTRALIA'S BIRDS, LIKE THE MAMMALS, COME FROM VERY ANCIENT FAMILIES.

THERE ARE SEVERAL SPECIES OF POSSUMS IN THIS STRANGE LAND, AND SOME OF THEM CAN GLIDE FROM TREE TO TREE, LIKE FLYING SQUIRRELS.
